SPECIES

S. 6 brevipilosa (S 10a) 1964 (B. Burt) Single light purple/darker center; 1-4 per peduncle, very short lived. Light green, small, round, thin, glossy, soft, velvety, tightly bunched/pale back; randomly curved petioles. Usually single crown. Miniature to semiminiature to small standard. Saintpaulia species

S. 5b "Brother Paddy"-

S. 5b confusa (S 16) 1958 (B. Burt) Single dark purple, 2-6 per peduncle. Variable floriferousness. Medium green, thin, quilted, leathery, flexible, serrated/near-white back. Often multi-crowned. Semiminiature to standard.

S. 5c2 ionantha subsp. ionantha var. diplotricha Single pale mauve to deep blue-purple, 4-12 per peduncle

S. 5c2 diplotricha Punter #0 (S 12c) 1947 (B. Burt) Single pale lilac/bright yellow stamens; seven per peduncle. Dark green, pointed, thick, serrated. Single crown, may sucker. Small standard. Saintpaulia species

S. 5a grandifolia #237 (S 7) 1958 (B. Burt) Single blue-violet, one or more per peduncle, floriferous. Light green, elliptical, very thin, long flexible petiole. Usually single crown. Large. Saintpaulia species

S. 5a grandifolia #299 (S 7a) 1958 (B. Burt) Single dark blue-violet, one or more per peduncle, very floriferous. Light to medium green, elliptical, very thin, crinkled, long flexible petiole. Usually single crown. Large. Saintpaulia species

S. 5b grotei "Protzen"(S 17) 1921 (A. Engler) Single, light-medium blue/variable darker eye, 2-3 per peduncle. Flowers may hide under foliage.

Pale-dark green, variable texture, round, serrated on most clones. Usually near-white back, occasionally red. Green or brown flexible petiole, variable internode length. Large trailer. Saintpaulia species

S. 5b grotei "Silvert Clone"

S. 5c1 House of Amani Single medium lavender-blue, 3-7 per peduncle, hides under leaves, short-lived. Dark green, pointed, quilted, smooth, prominent veins, serrated/occasional red back, petiole. Usually single crown. Never declared a true species. Standard. Saintpaulia species

S. 5c1 ionantha (S 5) 1893 (H. Wendl) Single blue-violet, 4-5 per peduncle, very floriferous. Dark green, pointed, heart-shaped, tends to spoon, thick, quilted, glossy, slightly serrated, long red-brown petiole/red back. Large.

S. 5g intermedia (S 9) 1958 (B. Burt) Single medium blue, 5-7 per peduncle, sparse. Olive green, small, round, tends to spoon, velvety, slightly serrated/purple-red back, prominent green veins. Single crown to trailing. Small standard or trailer. Saintpaulia species

S. 5f orbicularis var. purpurea (S 14a) 1964 (B. Burt) Single small dark purple, 5-8 per peduncle, very floriferous. Dark green, round to heart-shaped, thin, glossy/light back. Single or multiple crown. Standard. Saintpaulia species

S. 5g pendula var. kizarae 3397 (S 8a) 1964 (B. Burt) Single lavender, 2-4 per peduncle, floriferous. Light green, round, hairy, serrated. Trailer.

S. 5g. pendula var 'S T Iverson"

S. 8 rupicola (S 10) 1964 (B. Burt) Single light-medium blue, three or more per peduncle. Light-medium green, heart-shaped, soft, smooth, glossy, velvety/light back. Leaves sometimes thick. Multi-crowned standard or bushy trailer. Saintpaulia species

*S. 8 clone Kacharonoroni - Single pale blue to mauve, 4-8 per peduncle. Leaves oval, slightly fleshy, medium green above, pale green to whitish beneath, edges smooth or shallowly wavy, upper surface with short erect hairs. Standard rosette, may grow with multiple crowns. Saintpaulia species

S. 5c1 Sigi Falls Single variable blue-violet, 2-4 per peduncle, medium to difficult to bloom. Dull green, tends to look mottled, longifolia, may spoon, thick, tough, very hairy, varies in size/purple-red back. Multi-crowned. Never declared a true species. Large standard to bushy trailer. Saintpaulia species

S. 3 shumensis (S 3) 1955 (B. Burt) Single pale blue to almost white/variable darker eye, usually four per peduncle, sparse bloom. Bright green, pebbled, glossy, slightly serrated, short petiole, leaf blade twisted in some clones. Single crown, but tends to sucker easily. Miniature to semiminiature.

S. 5c1 tongwensis (S 6) 1947 (B. Burt) Single pale blue, may show dark pinwheel marking when grown cool; 4-6 per peduncle, very floriferous. Dark green, pointed, narrow, very thick, hairy, slightly serrated/some red back. May appear variegated with mottled pattern over main veins.

S.5h velutina (S 11) 1958 (B. Burt) Single small medium violet/darker eye, some white tips. Five per peduncle, floriferous. Black-green, round to heart-shaped, may cup up or down, thin, hairy, velvety, pronounced veining, serrated/red-purple back.

S. 5h velutina 'lite"- Semidouble white flowers tinged with blue, foliage is very unusual. Leaves are crinkled and look like a pepperomia leaf. Velvety dark green

ABOUT US

Violet Gallery is owned and operated by Brenda and Mahlen Petry. We've been doing this on somewhat of a commercial scale since 1989. Brenda and I live on a 42-acre farm in Central Pennsylvania (a few miles north of Gettysburg) and grow all of our violets under fluorescent lights (we do get a nice calendar every year from the electric company!!). This year we will raise over 12,000 violets & have over 1,500 different varieties (but who's counting). We grow these in a barn and a remodeled outbuilding that used to hold livestock. We do several flower shows every year. We began selling leaves only in 2012, but so sell plants at Flower Shows we attend. Check out our website for more information on the shows.

Brenda has retired from teaching and I retired from a furniture refinishing business to devote most of our time to raising violets and keeping after the farm. Maintaining the farm seems to be my hobby. I like to read if I have any spare time. Brenda likes reading also, along with entertaining our grandchildren and she enjoys watching the birds on our many bird feeders.

GROWING TIPS

Violets are easy to grow and are relatively low maintenance. Below are some growing tips that we've found work well for us.

Light may be the most important element in getting violets to bloom. In natural light, violets do well in an east or northeast window. Violets also grow well under fluorescent lights. We grow all of our violets under fluorescent lights. They will usually grow and bloom nicely with the lights on 10 to 12 hours a day and about 10"-12" above the violets. Some varieties may require more or less light to grow and bloom optimally.

Fertilizer is another important aspect in violet growing and blooming. Most fertilizers are sold as a mixture of 3 elements: Nitrogen, Phosphorus, and Potash. The label will list 3 numbers, i.e. 20-20-20 or 12-31-14. This represents the percentage of those 3 elements (in the order listed above). If you use a lightweight soilless potting mixture (like our Pro-Mix), we recommend you choose a fertilizer with little or no urea as part of the nitrogen component (the first number). Urea is a relatively cheap source of nitrogen for fertilizer manufacturers, but it requires bacteria in the soil to break it down effectively. It's great for cornfields, but it can cause irregularities in violets planted in a soilless mixture. We recommend Nutriculture (manufactured by Plant Marvel). It is urea-free and it's the fertilizer we have been using as an all-purpose fertilizer for several years. When selecting a fertilizer, a higher nitrogen content (the first number) will encourage leaf and foliage development. The phosphorus (the second number), encourages root development and blooming. Generally, the cheapest fertilizer isn't the best choice. We use a dilute fertilizer solution of a scant 1/4tsp./gallon every time we water.

Watering is another important component in keeping violets happy and healthy. We water/feed our violets about once a week. If you keep violets too wet, or use a soil that is too heavy, the roots will rot and die. We find violets will do better on the dry side and somewhat neglected, rather than overly pampered and overly watered. I always tell people you can't teach violets to swim! Most people have much success by watering from the bottom. Set the violet pot in a saucer of water/fertilizer and let it soak up all it can in 20-30 minutes. That's all the water it generally needs for the week. You can also water from the top, but be careful of getting the leaves on the crown too wet. The water droplets act as little magnifiers in the sunlight and can spot the leaves. If the crown (the plant center) gets too wet too often the violet can rot. Also if you are using well-water, the calcium, iron and other minerals can build up and mark the leaves if watered carelessly from the top. Our 2-part self-watering Oyama Planters make watering simple and easy. The Oyamans work best with a soilless potting mixture like our Pro-Mix.

Temperature. As a rule of thumb, if you are comfortable violets are comfortable. They will grow well between 68° and 80° F. They will survive at temperatures somewhat above or below this range, but they won't develop well and probably won't bloom often. The combination of a heavy wet soil and cool temperatures can quickly cause roots to rot. Be particularly careful in the winter if you are using natural light. Even if your room temperature is 68°F, a violet setting on a window sill may almost be touching the glass and it could be nearly freezing at the window pane. The leaf edges will turn gray or brown and get soft and the violet could eventually die. One final item for consideration is air circulation. Good air movement will help prevent powdery mildew on the soil and plant. We have fans running 24/7. Did I mention the electric company loves us?

To summarize, if violets grow well for you, but you have difficulty in getting them to bloom, it's probably light or fertilizer problems. If you have difficulty keeping violets alive, you are probably over-watering them, using too heavy of a soil, or keeping them too cold (or hot). Not surprisingly, like us, violets like to have food and water regularly and be in a comfortable environment.

~ Have Fun and HAPPY GROWING!!!!!! ~
